Business and Industrial Revival Will Be Nation Wide, Leaders Predict

Three Years.

STOCK MARKET FLOODED

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Under a flood of orders, the stock market in Wall Street opened on a rising tide today, leading industrialists continuing the gains made yesterday as a result of business enthusiasm over the conservative victory in the national election.

With leaders in the financial district predicting a quick business revival and immediate nation-wide prosperity, Wall Street was more active than it has been for three years.

Bankers, industrial leaders and corporation presidents unanimously anticipate a great renewal of business activities.

Judge Elbert H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation said: "Never before in the history of the world has any country had such an opportunity for advancement as the United States possesses just at this time. The fundamentals are here, the foundation has been laid. It is up to us, the people, to do our part. I trust the business men of this country will do their full part."

"It is certain President Coolidge will measure up fully to his responsibilities. We have turned the corner. This country will be an example and inspiration. I look for great future prosperity. It does not appear it will not be for lack of conditions and opportunity."

G. W. Davidson, president of the Central Union Trust Company, agreed with Judge Gary, saying: "The election has removed uncertainty, stimulated confidence, and lets the way clear for business to go ahead on sound lines."

Earl Babet, president of the American Sugar Refining Company, said: "The election clears the atmosphere. The country is entitled to a fine reward."

H. T. Parsons, president of the Woolworth Five & Ten Cent Stores, said: "We can now look ahead to four years of good business without hesitation."

Shop and curb markets here reacted promptly on Wednesday. Sixteen million dollars worth of securities changed hands in the bond market. In the stock market leading industrialists showed very pronounced strength.

COOLIDGE LEAD IN NEVADA 2,500

By United Press.
CARSON CITY, Nev., Nov. 6.—Latest figures on the vote in Nevada, comprising about 80 per cent of the precincts in the state, including all the large counties, gave Coolidge a lead of approximately 2,500 over Davis, who was about 2,000 ahead of LaFollette.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 6.—Incomplete returns from half the counties in New Mexico showed the Republican and Democratic tickets in a neck and neck race for control of the state. With 13 of the 23 counties reported, Davis led Coolidge by 3,500 and the Democratic state and congressional tickets led the Republican by about 3,000.

Following the congregational meeting, the Young Men's Bible Class and the Altar Guild will hold special business sessions.

City to Celebrate Coolidge Election On Monday Evening

A celebration of the election of "our President," Calvin Coolidge, will be held here on Monday night. A committee of better health conditions, who believe the old town needs a wakening up, are back of the movement to hold a big parade, followed by band concerts in the various streets.

No definite plans have yet been formed but already the bands are being enlisted. There will be no expense connected with the affair and no funds will be solicited or prizes offered. It will just be a good old-fashioned turnout of citizens, celebrating the close of the election, with a view to establishing harmony between all parties for the united support of our President, Calvin Coolidge, during the next four years.

Every organization in the community and vicinity is asked to participate. This includes lodges and people of Republican, Democratic, Independent and any other political affiliation.

The complete program will be worked out tonight and tomorrow.

James Romesburg Dies of Injuries

James Romesburg, about 45 years old, a Baltimore & Ohio brakeman, was fatally injured last night about midnight when he was caught between a bumping block and an empty car at Ada.

He died on the way to the Uniontown Hospital. Romesburg was head brakeman of the crew which was engaged in placing empties at the Ada mine at the time of the accident.

HEADED G. O. P. CAMPAIGN

WILLIAM M. BUTLER

One of the first acts of President Coolidge on learning that returns of Tuesday's election indicated a Republican landslide was to dictate a telegram to William M. Butler, national chairman, expressing his gratification at the way the campaign had been handled and for the magnificent results.

Four Miners Badly Burned In Gas Blast

In an explosion at the mine of the Husted-Sommers Coal Company at East Millsboro Wednesday morning at 3:30 o'clock four persons were badly burned. The victims:

William Queen, 24; removed to Brownsville Hospital.
Joe Zieg, 49 at hospital.
Sam Anderson, negro, 34, at hospital.
John Smalley, 37, taken home.

Smalley was said to be the worst burned but refused to go to the hospital. The men were working together when a gas "feeder" exploded. A feeder runs along the roof. It was ignited by a spark of friction from the drilling machine.

The clothing of the men ignited. There was no damage to the mine. The rest of the employees did not know there was an explosion. There was no cessation of work.

Mrs. Robert Lyon and Miss Thelma Sheering, the latter of Gibson avenue, South Connellsville, underwent throat operations at the Connellsville State Hospital this morning.

Committee Will Arrange Parking Cars at Monessen

In line with the arrangements for the big caravan of automobiles that will go from Connellsville to Monessen Saturday, hauling Coker roasters and boosting this city, a committee of men will go there Friday to make arrangements for parking of cars and unloading of the cheering section.

Believing it would result in considerable confusion and a general tie-up of traffic if the local automobile contingent should arrive unheralded at the steel town, the committee will visit police authorities and make arrangements for a parking space.

Monessen officers, expecting the big parade, will be able to handle the "transport train" with efficiency.

It was announced in the schools this morning that students should be at the High School building here ready to leave, between noon and 12:30 o'clock Saturday. Tickets arrived last yesterday and were placed on sale. Within a short time more than 100 had been sold and more were expected of this morning.

I. W. McClaren, "grand marshal" of the caravan, is confident the people of the city will see that enough cars are supplied to take care of the students. He has 75 and needs at least that many more.

What Red Cross Does Toward Promoting Health of Public

This article of present day activities of the Red Cross deals with nursing service and public health nursing.

The Red Cross public health nurse is the evangelist of better health conditions. She is a form of insurance to the community that the expectant mother and her offspring will have proper care, that school children will have perfunctory instruction, that boys and girls will be taught good sound laws of health and hygiene, and that the community will be given the first warning of an approaching disease.

In 1,175 different places scattered throughout the United States the Red Cross public health nurse is working. She is informing and instructing, particularly the women of the community whose charge and responsibility, of home making and home keeping, is regarded to the things that pertain to the development of individual and community life.

Red Cross public health nursing covers such things as pre-natal, maternity nursing, child welfare, industrial welfare and health education. It plays a challenge square in the face of humanity's most dreaded foe—disease.

LaFollette Loses Hold On Congress

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The majority of President Coolidge in Congress as the result of Tuesday's election, cannot be seriously challenged. Senator LaFollette lost his balance of power, and his strength was diminished.

Although his right hand man, Senator Brookhart of Iowa, appears to have won out on last returns, in Massachusetts, Senator David I. Walsh, who is often listed as a "progressive," went down to defeat before Frederick H. Gillett, and in Minnesota, Senator Magnus Johnson, another LaFollette man, went down to defeat before a Republican.

In the House most of the LaFollette group retained their seats but the Coolidge Republicans gained enough from the Democrats to establish indisputable control.

With returns possibly all in it seems evident that the new Senate line-up will stand:

Republicans 54; Democrats 41; Farmer-Labor 1; necessary for a majority 49.

This is a clear gain of three Senate seats by Republicans and a loss of two by the Democrats and one by the Farmer-Labor group.

Tabulation of the new line-up of the House shows:

Republicans 242; Democrats 188; others, 4. Necessary for a majority 218.

This represents an actual gain by Coolidge Republicans of 17 votes over the present Congress and a loss by the Democrats of 15 votes.

The Republican gains were registered in Pennsylvania where they picked up six seats, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, West Virginia and Oregon.

Nick Longworth of Ohio is expected to succeed Gillett as speaker of the new House if he desires the post. It is customary for a majority leader to succeed to the leadership.

WALTERS HAS LEAD OF 27 OVER BAILEY IN CAMBRIA DISTRICT

By United Press.
JOHNSTOWN, Nov. 6.—Cambria county again provided the finale in the election results in Pennsylvania by drawing up at the finish with virtually a tie in the race for congressman from the district.

Warren Worth Bailey, Democrat and Labor candidate, made a sensational drive at the end of the day's returns and when the results were given out by the commissioners they stood:

Walters, Republican, 23,522; Bailey, Democrat, 23,495.

Each time the count was made it stood 27 majority for Walters. However it probably will require the official count to determine.

COOLIDGE'S PERSONALITY

More Than Party Was Deciding Factor; LaFollette's Lack of Strength Surprising; Smith or McAtee Could Not Have Had Better Than Davis.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1924, by The Courier.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The conservatives have won their greatest victory in the era of modern politics in America. Democrats, who feared the invasion by a third party of vested rights, abandoned their party faith and tradition to join with Republican brethren in fighting their common foe—the radicals.

The victory of Calvin Coolidge is an anti-LaFollette verdict as much as it is an acquiescence in "things as they are." The President on the final count may poll a substantial margin above a complete majority. In other words, his triumph over his two opponents is clear-cut. He is not a minority victor as Wilson was in the three-cornered race of 1912.

The Democratic party was cut in half by the election. It lost more heavily to the third party than it did to the regular Republican ticket, but the conspicuous fact is that if the total Democratic vote is added to the LaFollette vote there still is a comfortable margin for Coolidge. The effect of this will most certainly be felt in Congress where, if Mr. Coolidge asserts himself as a leader, he will feel more confident than before of the support of public opinion throughout the nation.

Hesitant and cautious heretofore because he was serving the unexpired term of his predecessor, Mr. Coolidge now can feel in new few months as well as in the four year term beginning March 4, that he has the country back of him. He can remake his Cabinet and with surefootedness lay before Congress his legislative program.

Two political theories were tested at the polls this time. One was whether a party could be strictly accountable for the misdeeds of a few of its members, and the other was whether economic issues could be made paramount in the voters' mind. The people replied that guilt is individual, that Calvin Coolidge was not tainted with the scandals of preceding administrations and that his personal honesty and integrity were sufficient answer to the cries for honesty in government. Nobody in the campaign accused him of dishonesty but opponents asserted that the Republican party should be punished. The country chose to think not of parties but of persons.

As for the doctrine that an administration in power cannot be overruled by business conditions are good and agriculture is faring well, this election furnished another corroboration. Just as in 1916, the administration was retained on the prosperity issue, just as in 1920 it was voted out of power because of economic disturbances and the after-effects of the war, so did Coolidge benefit this time by the relatively big improvement in business and farm world developed this year. Whether politics Continued on Page Four.

Gay Hues Feature Late Fall Styles

Colorful Frocks Popular—Silhouette Adheres to Narrow Lines.

A mode of infinite variety has been the favorite term used by critics to describe the fashions of the last few seasons, and they have again fallen back upon that hackneyed phrase to characterize the current autumn mode. For, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald Tribune, there is a vast difference between the facile but almost divertissements of the styles of last spring and fall and the equally extensive peregrinations of present fashions.

The motivating force behind the widely varied details of the last two seasons has been the utter supremacy of the basic elements of the mode. Boyish simplicity and straight lines had been accepted as axioms, and it was the not simple task of the designer to disguise these platinities by the dexterous manipulations of such details as plain, flounces and tulle. Another means of differentiation employed by the Paris dress-makers was the use of new and distinctive materials. But as far as silhouette, waistline, sleeve and color were concerned, it was patent that the timorous couture was seriously content to follow the path of least resistance and rest upon its previous laurels. In a word, the mode was all dressed up and going nowhere in particular.

For Jours Fille and Matron. A survey of current fashions shows the same varied scope covered at the recent openings as in previous seasons, but with this difference. Where before the numerous details represented efforts to diversify old themes, today they are significant groupings toward new style types—they are now coupled with changing trends in the foundations of the mode, and the new tendencies which have been inaugurated this autumn will become more crystallized with the approach of winter and spring.

The first general tenet which the fall mode discarded was the ideal of formal boyishness—a heritage from post-war sportswear. The new styles mean a decided step forward in dress dignity, and while the jeune fille factor is quite as youthful as before, the mature charm of the matron has been granted a separate and necessary sphere. Indeed, some of the Paris salons have gone so far as to maintain different attelers for youth and matron.

The second autumn innovation was the silhouette compromise. Not even the most radical critic believed that the slim silhouette could be divorced from its firm stance in a single season, and the introduction of the flared basquine to partly share the spotlight with the straight outline has satisfied the most chronic malcontents. The newest Paris models pay homage to both silhouette types by continuing the straight line snugly over bodice and hips and confining the flare to the lower sector of the skirt. Incidentally, the typical fall skirt is about five inches shorter than last year, reaching

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use purified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you full relief of your cough remedy. You could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every passage, loosen a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, clears the membranes, and gives instant relief to the throat. It is a sure cure for throat trouble, hoarseness, cough, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for cold and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for 2½ ounces of Pinex with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., St. Wayne, Mo.

Says Allenhu Surely Conquers RHEUMATISM

Allenhu, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers.

"The blessed relief this marvelous prescription quickly gives has made for it thousands of friends," says the Union Drug Co., who have been appointed agent in your city. It is Mr. Allen's own discovery. Advertisement.

Cave That Furnished Solomon With Stone

Solomon's cave, an old quarry from which the stone was taken to build Solomon's temple, is situated just outside of Jerusalem, in the hills of Judea. All that is left of the temple is the idea embodied in a model of it. On its site stands the Mosque of Omar. But the cave remains unchanged, its walls echoing voices from our ages and bearing testimony to the foundation of a grand and glorious temple which symbolized as well as dated the foundation of the Mosaic lodge, says a writer in the Christian Science Monitor.

In the early days the laws of religion and philosophy and those of architecture were very closely united in thought; and it was held that these laws were secrets to be known only to the few. The working tools of the builder became emblems of moral truth; the art and crafts were secrets jealously guarded. There must have been a secret order of architects who built the Temple of Solomon, and who opened friendly commercial relations with foreign nations, making of the organization an international fraternity. Great material help was given by Hiram of Tyre and the society of Phoenician architects in the construction of the temple.

When Diocletian began his reign he determined to destroy Christianity and began the persecution of all religious secret orders. For a time the builders, owing to their value and service to the state, were exempt from these laws of suppression and enjoyed special privileges, but gradually they were forced into more and more secrecy, taking refuge in caves and secluded places to hold their meetings.

Best Nut More Beauty
The country folk (of Java) themselves, conscious of their ornate setting, were dressed for the part. A group of those women, moving in a musical comedy, would give a theatrical manager complete assurance in the matter of his box office receipts. They are so modest and polite that they never stare at a stranger; though with such figured, eyes and coloring, I doubt whether he would object greatly if they did. Their manners are perfect, except that most of them chew betel nut, and casually make railway platforms and footpaths disreputable with red maculations. It is shocking to see a beautiful woman laugh, when her opened mouth looks as though a savage blow had just seriously wounded it.—J. M. Tomlinson in Harper's Magazine.

Building Trades' God
Lupan is the name of the god which the members of the Building trades worship. Lu is the name of a kingdom, in the Chow dynasty (1122-220 B. C.), and Pan is the name of a skilled mechanic of that time. He is frequently mentioned in the classics as an inventor of mechanical devices. From him the guild of the building trades derives its name, says the Detroit News.

The guild includes carpenters, masons, bricklayers, blacksmiths and painters. The meeting always takes place in the T'ing-ching temple, outside Chienmen, which was erected for the worship of Yu Fei. The latter is the famous patriotic general of the Sung dynasty (960-1279 A. D.). It is not known why the building trades choose this temple for its meeting place.

VANDERBILT, Nov. 6.—Making its first move to cut down the cost of production at Paul Works, near here, the W. J. Rainey company is transferring the local mine foreman to Allison, placing the responsibility of the coal mine on the superintendent, who will hold two posts. Frank Patterson of Union street, who for the past six years has been employed as mine foreman at Paul Works, will be assigned in the capacity of assistant mine foreman at Allison, beginning November 16. Thomas Moore, the superintendent, will replace him and also hold his present post.

Mr. Patterson before coming to Vanderbilt was mine foreman at the old Fort Hill mine for one year. Since then he has been at Paul Works. He expects to move on the 15th. The Allison mine is one of the largest plants of the Rainey Company while Paul Works is said to be near the "end of the rope."

Although the company has not signified its intention of cutting more of its force, it is probable that it will take place before long.

Unusual Larceny Sift

An unusual larceny suit was heard before Justice of the Peace C. B. Arison last evening. John H. Christ charged Mrs. Eva Fulmer with stealing a dog valued at $85. It was alleged at the hearing that Mr. Christ's dog had killed several of Mrs. Fulmer's chickens. She locked the dog up when it came on her premises. When asked to release the dog, it was testified, Mrs. Fulmer threatened to kill the canine. Mrs. John Christ, Mrs. Colbert and Earl Christ and the plaintiff were sworn in for the commonwealth. None of the witnesses took the witness stand. The case was compromised by placing half the costs on the prosecutor and the other half on the defendant. The persons taking part are residents of Liberty.

Store Windows Broken.

Eleven windows were broken by miscreants who threw stones through them late Tuesday evening. Ten of the store operated by A. E. Shal-lenberg and the other was the door window of F. B. Galt's hardware store. Just what the motive was is a mystery as nothing was stolen. Two boys are suspected but the store owners are rounding up more evidence.

50,000 IN LIFE-SAVING SERVICE OF RED CROSS

Additional 50,000 Water Safety Experts Probable Gain of Summer Campaign.

A boy watched an expert give a class a lesson in the way to revive a person unconscious from water immersion. The next day the boy tried it on a bathing companion and saved his life. Such a boy justifies all the effort and the cost of the Life-Saving Service, American Red Cross officials declare. The Red Cross method of restoring partly drowned persons is so simple that the continual large sacrifice of life must decrease as an informed public insists upon general instruction in proper practice to induce respiration.

The Red Cross Life-Saving Service in every part of the country, summer and winter, is engaged in teaching this method as an integral part of swimming and life-saving. This service has grown from a single expert in 1914 to a corps of almost 50,000 active lifesavers. In this tenth year of the work it is predicted that fully 50,000 more experts will be eligible for membership in the corps. This large accession in a single year is confidently expected as the result of the campaign among 25,000 troops of Boy Scouts under plan to qualify at least two lifesavers in each troop.

During the past year, 4,745 men, 3,774 women, 9,731 boys and girls successfully passed the rigid tests of the Red Cross—an increase of 5,331 over 1923. Intensive instruction in developing hundreds of qualified examiners for the Red Cross Life-Saving Corps, who supplement the teaching staff maintained by the national organization. The cause of water safety is therefore penetrating to new sections and eventually will cover all American territory.

Recognition of this Red Cross service for humanity is growing apace. At the request of the War Department every military training camp had life-saving instruction last summer. Municipalities have adopted the Red Cross course, public and private schools are offering it to students, business, civic and athletic organizations are promoting campaigns, and police departments are making it a part of the conditioning process for their recruits.

Little Toad Raises New Problem for Golf World

A toad brought a new problem to the rolling world the other day at Redden, Yorkshire.

In a match W. Laveridge lured his ball in the rough. As the player approached a large toad jumped up, and the ball, which had justly rested on the toad's back disappeared into a hole. To play the ball Laveridge pushed the toad away, but it jumped into the hole where the ball had lodged, rendering it unplayable. The point at issue was whether in lifting out the ball and dropping it to play the second shot, Laveridge should be penalized. It was ruled that since the ball had been moved by an agency outside the game, no penalty should be incurred.

The Wonderful Baby

"Now, then, ladies and gents," shouted the rosy-faced showman, "walk up and see the most wonderful baby on earth! The chance for admission is only one penny. Walk up! Walk up!" A good many people responded to the invitation, and when the place was full the showman brought forward a very ordinary baby indeed in all respects.

"What is there wonderful about it?" asked one of the disbelieving audience of the showman. "I've seen thousands of babies like it."

Cleveland on the Cow

Grover Cleveland's composition on the cow, written when he was a small boy in school, follows:
"The cow is very useful. It is not for the cow we could not have milk to put in our coffee and tea. Every part of the cow is useful: the skin is tanned into leather and boots are made of it. The flesh is good for food and is called beef, their horns are made into buttons. Of milk butter and cheese is made. There is a glutinous substance by the hoof which is made into glue—indeed if it were not for the cow, we should have to do without many things which are considered necessities of life."—Kansas City Times.

Ancient Candlestick

Unique in appearance is an "ancient" candlestick owned by a Los Angeles artist. This was given her ancestors by Henry II of France. It was used in the deigning monarch's hunting lodge, and is made of sturdy iron spirals set upon a round base on three bent legs. The candle fits down in the spiral, and there is an ingenious iron knob or handle which, when twisted, raises the diminishing candle a spiral at a time, so that the light may be kept even as the wax melts down.

Proprietor of Gas Station Is Held Up, Robbed

Three young men, riding in a light Ford truck, held up and robbed P. B. Patterson, proprietor of a service station at Moyer, last night. The robbery occurred about 10 o'clock and the loot included all the cash in the victim's pockets together with that in the cash register. Police have been notified in several towns. The machine stopped at the filling station and five gallons of gasoline was ordered. As Patterson took the hose from the tank of the machine after filling it, one of the men poked a gun in his side and commanded him to back up against the building. Then his pockets and the cash register were rifled. Just exactly how much money was secured could not be given by the victim.

His wife called the hold-up from the home, nearby, and a small son took a shot at the car as it sped away but the bullet went wide. In the rear of the machine were some women's supplies, the police were told, indicating the car might also have been stolen.

New Vanderbilt Road to Be Thrown Open on Friday

Today at noon marked the end of the 21 days necessary to permit the Vanderbilt-Connelville concrete road to dry and tomorrow is to mark the opening of the state thoroughfare. The last piece of concrete work was completed at noon, Wednesday, October 15.

There has been very little talk of celebrating the opening of the road that was famed for the dangerous "S" curve that has been eliminated. Other sharp curves have been taken out and the road has been graded at various points. The road has been constructed from Reed's Garage at Vanderbilt to Hickory Bottom, about a mile west of Connelville.

The opening of the road, lacking the dangers that marred motoring, is apt to boost the prosperity of the Young Valley, as traveling will be much easier. It will be a matter of a few minutes to drive from Connelville to Vanderbilt or vice versa.

WOMAN AILING FOR A YEAR

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Happy Results

Newcastle, Pa.—"I was all run-down and everybody thought I was going into a decline. I had been ailing for a year with pains in my right side and I could hardly stand on my feet. When I walked I felt as if something was falling. I was not able to do any work and had a nurse most of the time. She spoke to me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I gave it a fair trial. Some people think one bottle should cure them, but I did not stop at that. I took more and got better, and am able now to do my own housework. There was a time, when I could not get up at all, that I had to be carried to bed. I have had druggists tell me that they had something better, but they don't tell me that now, for I take no other. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound now for five years. Any woman who cares to call or write, I will be glad to tell her how it helped me."—Mrs. MARY LESTER, Newcastle, Pa. West Leisenring Home Destroyed; Savings Burned

John Chuchek and his two children narrowly escaped cremation Tuesday night when their home at West Leisenring was burned to the ground, the fire being of an undetermined origin. Mr. Chuchek and sons, one 10 and the other 12, were awakened by the crackling of the fire flames which were reaching through the door of their bedroom on the second floor. Cursing his children, one under each arm, Chuchek fought his way down stairs through clouds of blinding smoke to the open. The children were taken to the home of a neighbor where they were given shelter. Chuchek lost his life's savings of some hundred dollars which he kept secreted in the house.

Cuban Twirler Learns English After Big Fast.

Eddie Moore, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is responsible for a good yarn about Pedro Dibat, of the Reds, which Eddie insists is true.

"Pedro can scarcely talk any English," said Eddie, "and when I met him with the club Dibat was laughing. The Cuban pitcher was rooming with Babe Bressler, who tries to look after him in dining rooms and other public places.

"Pedro reached the hotel one day after most of the Reds had eaten. He was very hungry, as he picked up one of the gaps. But he didn't have nerve enough to go into the dining room. So he decided to wait in his room until Babe came in. Babe came in at eleven o'clock. As he opened the door Pedro jumped up, yelling:

"Coffee, mangwich! Coffee, mangwich!"

COOLIDGE CARRIES UNIONTOWN; LIKINS IS IGNORED THERE

President Coolidge ran two to one ahead of John W. Davis in Uniontown and LaFollette was snowed under with an insignificant vote. The totals gave Coolidge 2,623; Davis 1,285; LaFollette 267, not nearly as many as he secured in this city.

Congressman Samuel A. Kendall had 2,518 votes to 1,463 for Boyd, his Democratic opponent. William Likins, Uniontown, got just 74 votes in his own city.

In the Legislature race Joseph B. Henderson of Connelville got 2,624; McDaniel 2,564; Bush 2,455; Cochran 1,421; Magee 1,406; and Howard 1,525.

Why Suffer From Bronchial Asthma?

Simple Home Treatment Makes Breathing Easy.

Just because you start the day tired, listless, worn-out from loss of rest and the difficult breathing of miserable Asthma, do not think you have to stay this way long.

Do strong and well breathe clearly and easily again by using this simple treatment known as Oxidase, the prescription of a Worcester, Mass., physician.

For any form of Asthma where the breathing tubes are irritated, the breathing short and difficult, its healing, relieving action is really wonderful. Sufferers who can't breathe at night and who go for a good, clear breath will appreciate the relief and comfort Oxidase gives.

Oxidase is a tablet made from essential oils which, when the patient dissolves in the mouth, almost immediately soothes the irritation, closes out the choked up air passages and enables the sufferer to breathe easily and get a real comfortable night's sleep.

It is sold by leading druggists including A. A. Clarke and Connelville Drug Co., who agree to refund the full purchase price of the first package to any sufferer who does not obtain satisfactory relief. Asthmatic sufferers should give Oxidase a trial. It is harmless and inexpensive.—Advertisement.

Pennsylvania Candidate for Senate Elected

HARRISBURG, Nov. 5.—All doubt of the election of Republicans to the Senate of Pennsylvania was removed by returns from the 31st and 33rd districts, indicating defeat of Democratic candidates in close contests.

Senator Culbertson of Lewistown won over former Senator Scott Lilly of Marysville by a 1,600 majority in the 31st. Norman L. Bonbrake of Chambersburg defeated Daniel M. Shely, Democrat, in the 33rd, 4,000.

Senator Steel of Northumberland was returned and Leventy of Johnstown won out over Baumer, Democrat and labor candidate, in the only other contest.

The Democrats will have seven senators in the general assembly, all hold-overs.

Club Boys Test Seed Corn

SEND corn is in worse shape this year than perhaps ever before. Says Prof. J. H. Hinkelman of the University of Illinois, "Last spring was cold and wet and the 1923 corn was the poorest for seed since 1918. From present indications it seems that there will be a real seed corn emergency for next year."

It says also that there is very little old corn of good quality which is available at any price," says Dennis A. Morrison of the American Seed & Wire Co., "and as never before with the value of the boy and girl corn clubs he appreciated. The club members will have about all the seed corn available in some sections. It is too good to put a value upon seed corn for next year, but the boy who has it will fully justify all that is being claimed for the wonderful progress being made in club work."

"THE RECKLESS AGE"—On view today at the Paramount, presents Reginald Denny in the leading role. "The Reckless Age" tells the story of the hilarious difficulties of a young nobleman who takes out insurance against a lighted romance. The insurance agent assigned to see that the projected marriage goes through, adds further complications by falling in love with the girl himself. Reginald Denny plays the agent, and is surrounded by a big cast of standard artists. Ruth Dwyer, one of London's popular beauties, who played opposite Herbert Rawlinson in three of his best pictures, is the girl, and Hayden Stevenson, who played his manager in "The Leather Stocking," William Austin, and others who appear in its swift action are: John Stepping, Tom McGuire, Fred Malatesta, Frank Leigh, May Wallace and others.

Friday and Saturday, Buffalo Bill, Jr., will be seen in "Rarin' to Go."

The Soisson

"BEAU BRUMMEL"—With John Barrymore, one of America's most distinguished actors in the leading role, opened today at the Soisson for a three-day attraction.

As "Beau Brummel," the prince of dandies and intimate friend of the Prince of Wales, Barrymore has a role exactly suited to his personality. Impersonating the most vivid personality that ever strode through the social history of England, he gives an unforgettable performance.

The three angles underlying the theme of "Beau Brummel" are the fickleness of fortune, the test of friendship, and the instability of popularity. Because of his intimacy with the Prince of Wales, Beau Brummel is able to influence his creditors and make himself the arbiter of English society.

The Orpheum

"THE MAN WHO FIGHTS ALONE"—A Paramount picture with William Farnum appearing in the stellar role. Is the feature picture today, Friday and Saturday at the Orpheum.

Farnum's characterization of the capable, forceful engineer whose unwarranted jealousy and suspicion of his best friend all but leads to his destruction is nothing short of the work of a genius. He proves that as a dramatic actor of emotional parts he is in a class by himself.

"The Man Who Fights Alone" is based upon an adaptation by Jack Cunningham from an unusual story by William Blackie and James Shelly Hamilton called "The Miracle of Hale." Right from the first flash-up when the audience makes the acquaintance of the principal characters, the plot begins to develop some highly dramatic situations.

The Strand

"THE SEA HAWK"—Opened today at the Strand, Scottsdale, for a three-day attraction.

In "The Sea Hawk" Sabatini lives up to his title of "the modern Dumas," his romance between Sir Oliver and Roseanne is one of the most unusual the screen has known. His situations are logical and decidedly entertaining, and he has given his characters real work to do.

Milton Sills is seen as Sir Oliver Tressilian, later Sak-el-Dahr, the bravest commander on the seas, and makes of the character a more dominant screen personality than even "Robin Hood." Mr. Sills has been the hero of many big photoplays, but never have we seen any character demand so much of an actor or an actor make so much of his character.

Half Enough Cars to Make Trip To Monessen Saturday Listed; 75 More Machines Are Needed

J. W. McClaren, Committee Chairman, Asks for Volunteers to Transport.

STUDENTS ARE ENTHUSED

Your car to Monessen on Saturday, is the appeal being made this week by owners of automobiles in this city. A movement is under way to transport to the Mon River town and back again the entire cheering squad of the Connelville High School. The way thence being sold at the high school yesterday would indicate the number may be between 800 and 1,000.

Only half the number of automobiles needed to transport the huge crowd has been offered by owners and J. W. McClaren, chairman of the committee handling the movement of cars, asks that everyone who can afford transportation to some students to notify him at once by calling 399 on either phone.

Autoists are not asked to turn over the whole space in their cars to students, but to take as many as they can carry. Others, who plan to go to the game, but who have their own crowd to convey, are invited to join the parade which will move about 12:30 o'clock, to make greater the showing of the color contingent.

The affair will be something never before attempted here and will be plainly demonstrative of the community spirit. It will indicate to all Western Pennsylvania that Connelville is alive and awake.

Good roads exist from here to Monessen. It is believed the run can be made in about an hour and a half without having a speed. The first cars will leave the High School building at 12:30 o'clock or a little before. Monessen authorities notified the local school it was planned to start the same there at 2:30 o'clock instead of 3 o'clock.

The Junior Republican Ukulele Girls will be included among the riders. This was definitely learned last evening.

Mr. McClaren said this morning in addition to the 75 cars definitely promised he had lined out on many others. He is still requesting public spirited people to volunteer the use of their machines.

Vanderbilt Star Bowlers in Battle At Perry Tonight

The Vanderbilt All-Star Duckpin team will journey to Perryopolis this evening where they will meet the stars of that place in the third inter-town combat. The Young Valley club has split in the two games with the Perryans and are out for another scalp. Perryopolis won the first conflict on their alleys but lost at Vanderbilts.

The game is scheduled to get under way at 7:30 o'clock. The bowlers will leave the Vanderbilt Hotel at 6:30 o'clock.

John Hammons, a right-handed pitcher, has been purchased by Minneapolis from Peoria of the Three-I League. The Millers have also signed George Denison, an Albert Lea (Ill.) lad, who pitched a no-hit game against the Champion Waterloo team of the Mississippi Valley league.

Dunbar Township Will Play Game on Friday Instead of Saturday; on Home Grounds

Dunbar Township High School and North Union will clash on Friday afternoon on the Tribble Field instead of Saturday. It was announced last evening by the Dunbar Township officials. Word from North Union, requesting the change, came yesterday afternoon and the Red and Black officials wired back that all was O. K. North Union is anxious to see some of the other grid teams in action Saturday if developed, and therefore asked for the change of the date.

Nothing less than a victory will be considered by the Dunbar Township grid team. The Dunbarites are in the final stretch of the schedule and must win the remaining combats to finish above the 500 mark.

Heavy scrimmaging was scheduled for the Red and Black contingent yesterday and a similar session will be undergone this afternoon. The grid monitor is working the squad continually, fearing to let up in the work, and anxious to keep the team in the best of physical condition.

Dunbar has been playing straight football and it is not probable that the team will "open up" with its bag of tricks until the last two games. Just what the team possesses is unknown for the grid monitor is determined to spring a surprise in the final conflict of the year.

The eleven is in excellent physical condition, with several of the players nursing minor injuries.

Friday's game is the last home encounter of the season and one of the largest crowds of the year is expected to witness it. It will get under way at 3 o'clock.

Tornadoes Will Play Once More; Meet Uniontown

The Connelville Tornadoes, possibly not as strong as last season, but with considerable of its original strength, will try a "come-back" game next Tuesday afternoon at Uniontown. The locals will meet the Uniontown Independents in the Armistice Day clash.

For the past 10 days the team has been working out regularly, meeting on the gridiron until dark. A contract, calling for a 60-40 division of the net receipts, has been drawn up and a copy is in the hands of the local club.

Provided the club can secure games it will play at home once or twice before the season finally ends and may give the city another taste of independent football.

Among the players out for the team are Rehor, Penella, Gallagher, Sandusky, Spogar, Barley, O'Donnell, Buttermore, Pratt and Barromeo, linemen; Fred and "Toni" Hart, Pittsment, J. White, Martray, Irlback, King and McCormick in the backfield.

The game will be at 3 o'clock at the Elks Park in Uniontown. A preliminary clash will be between the Gallagher A. C. of the West Side and a Uniontown team of boys of the same age.

The Cokers, although only recently organized for this season, have been playing on other teams and for the most part are in good condition. They confidently expect to give the country-siders a big run.

MANY INTERESTING QUESTIONS ASKED ABOUT "LAVAN"

It is suggested that in connection with the Connelville-to-Monessen caravan, scheduled to run on Saturday, there are some interesting problems for high class mathematicians and those interested in puzzles to work out.

For instance, one person wants to know how long the string of 150 or more automobiles in the caravan will be. Another wants to know approximately how much ribbon of orange and black colors, those of the school, will be used if a streamer is run from the radiator to the windshield of each automobile and three-fourths of the occupants have more ribbon in their coats. Another inquisitive person would like to know the number of gallons of gasoline to be used and a "financial" wonderer how much money would be represented in the rolling block making the trip.

MRS. J. E. ANGLE HAS PRAISE FOR COKERS, WHO HAVE DONE BEST

Mrs. J. E. Angle has submitted to the sporting department of The Courier a poem written to the players of the Connelville High School football team, applauding them for their sincere efforts and undaunted spirit as they have played game after game this season without winking.

It is dedicated "to the boy who does his best." It follows:

Give praise to the boy who has done his best
In all he has sought to do,
Who has spent his strength to his measure length,
However it looked to you.

His best is the most that a boy can give,
And fortune will reward it fair;
Of the wild acclaim at the winner's game
The loser deserves his share.

What then of a tip over handspike
That few of us ever would choose;
To the runner, bent to his spirit's best,
How dare we our praise refuse?

Though breathing the finish a bit too late,
Give him of our plaudits loud.
May there be no sneer he has earned
By daring the scolding crowd.

The test of the courage is from defeat
And not from the laurel tree.
Of the wall lost fight, on the victor's night,
Has given no more than he.

The best is the limit of each boy's worth,
Whatever the fault he,
And the boy who bows to his utmost goal,
Good winning, though crowds don't see.

Atlantic is full-powered gasoline. It is clean. It is uniform. It is scientifically balanced. It is made to fit the seasons and regions in which it is sold.

If you could see—if you could follow—if you could analyze the minute processes of combustion attending the burning of a charge of Atlantic, you'd find this: That Atlantic vaporizes easily and lets the spark take hold instantly. That it burns completely and releases its dynamic force exactly when the timing mechanism tells it to. That it leaves almost no carbon. And that it contains nothing to pit your valves or injure your motor in the slightest degree.

So bear in mind that in Atlantic you get more than good gasoline—you get right gasoline. You get the product of one of the oldest and most progressive refining organizations in the country—a product behind which is the experience of men who know what crude oils contain the most desirable motor fuel distillates, how best to extract them and how scientifically to balance them for utmost efficiency. Atlantic refining engineers overlook nothing in keeping Atlantic at the forefront of motor fuels.

No, sir! You can't go wrong on Atlantic. You can't buy a gasoline that better serves your needs or better conserves your motor. Always right, always full-powered, always dependable.

Governor Issues Proclamation on Red Cross Drive

Governor Gifford Pinchot has just issued the following statement calling on the people of the state to join or renew their membership in the American Red Cross during the period of the Eighth Annual Roll Call, November 11 to 27.

"The American Red Cross has won a secure place in the hearts of the American people and of the world, for its unselfish and devoted service, and in war time and peace has impartially relieved distress and suffering wherever found, whether in battle, sickness, plague or national catastrophe.

"Through its unselfish idealism and practical helpfulness, the American Red Cross has sowed the seeds of world accord and universal brotherhood.

"The American Red Cross has designated the time from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day for its eighth annual Roll Call, when its ranks are thrown open for service to the people of this country.

"Therefore, I earnestly bespeak the support of every citizen of Pennsylvania, and I urge that during the Roll Call each person already a member renew his membership, and all not members take this opportunity to number themselves among the ranks of a movement so praiseworthy."

Her Blonde Hair Was Darkening

But New Light-Hair Shampoo
Brought Back Its Natural Rich
Golden Color and Gleaming Luster

Her blonde hair was becoming dull, streaky, faded and lustreless. She had tried nearly everything to bring back its original color. All had failed. Then her hairdresser recommended Blondex, the wonderful new shampoo, prepared for blonde and light hair—only. Just one shampoo and her hair became much lighter. Then in an unbelievably short time it was the same charming blonde shade that formerly was so much admired. Her friends soon noticed the marvelous change. Now, you too, can bring back the natural color of darkened blonde hair. If your hair is already beautifully blonde, Blondex will keep it that way. Acts in a perfectly natural way. Leaves no oil behind to form sticky film, on which dirt and dust collect—causing light hair to become dark. Gives a natural thick luster. Makes hair soft and silky. No injurious dyes or chemicals. Lightly recommended for children's hair. Your dealer will promptly return the small cost if you are not more than delighted with results. Get Blondex today at all good dealers such as C. Mount Pleasant Will Have New Alarm System

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, Nov. 2.—At a meeting of council Monday night the committee on public safety recommended that the Bell telephone fire alarm system be installed at Somerset, LaFollette and Irwin be adopted in Mount Pleasant. The committee was instructed to make a survey and determine what will be required.

Petitions were presented asking for sewers in Spruce and Oak streets. They were referred to the sewer committee.

Burgess John L. Shields in his report said he had served notice on owners of property adjoining the Diamond to have sidewalks laid. They failed to start work. The contract was therefore awarded to Rega & Son.

Taking up the differences between the police department and the automobile association over the traffic order at Washington street and College avenue, the burgess said he had been asked by Solicitor Eugene Varden to file at Greensburg a transcript of his docket showing the action in filing Health Officer Harry Melndos, the association's special officer, for impersonating an officer. The appeal taken by Melndos will be argued in December, he said.

Process of Growth of Human Language

An artificial speaking machine was demonstrated by Dr. Richard Part. By blowing into it and fingering keys he mechanically produced complete words and sentences.

He used this device to illustrate his theory of the development of human language from the unintelligible roars, grunts, squeaks, howls and whistles of our primitive ancestors.

In those early days, he said, according to the New York World, man used his larynx to roar, to grunt with and at the same time he communicated his ideas to others by grimaces and the movements of tongue and lips. The next step was the discovery that by blowing air through the mouth while he was grimacing the movements of his tongue and lips produced changes of whispered sounds, so that the various grimaces could be recognized even when his back was turned.

The last stage in the great invention of speech came when our primitive ancestors discovered that by roaring and grunting at the same time as they whispered the audible grimace became recognizable ten or twenty times farther off than before. They also found that they could vary the note of their roars and grunts without interfering with the recognition of the grimace. And so they invented the art of song.

Black Snake Found at Home in Little Italy

New York.—Sergeant Murgrove and Patrolman Delaney were riding in a police department five in Harlem's Little Italy, when their progress was suddenly arrested by a shout of "Snake!" Excited tenants stepped the patrolmen, who jumped from their automobile and climbed the tenement's stairs until they arrived on the fourth floor in the flat of Tony Pericelli. Coiled under the stove was a black snake, six feet three inches long. Murgrove grabbed the reptile just below the head and Delaney clutched its tail. Then they whisked the snake to the waiting automobile and took it to the East One Hundred and Fourth street station. James Coyle, keeper of the Central park zoo, arrived later and took it to add to his collection.

Western Artist to Have Years of Wagon Travel

Seattle, Wash.—Sightseeing in a covered wagon, with "Chicago in two years" as the first goal, is the plan of Louis Dana Johnson, a local artist, who has left here with his family on a journey of five or six years. In a trim gray prairie schooner, Betty Lou, aged two, plays under the shelter of the canvas. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and Barbara, aged eleven, hike along the highways. Mr. Johnson expects to "knock off a year" in Chicago to study art. He then will continue to "hit the trail" until he and his family tire of the novelty. The schooner, which he constructed, is fitted with everything necessary for a home and a school.

"Chameleon Lake"

It is well known that the water of many lakes exhibits characteristic colors. Lake Geneva, at the western end of Switzerland, is blue, while Lake Constance, at the eastern end of that country, is green. Bluesness implies purity, since the natural color of water is blue. A green lake has its water slightly clouded with impurities.

It is said that green lakes sometimes become absolutely colorless for a time, and it has been found that this sudden change of hue is due to the washing into the lakes of mud colored red by oxide of iron. Red is complementary to green, and the result of the mixture is that the green color of the water becomes brown; the time being neutralized.

GOOD YEAR

Confluence

CONFLUENCE, Nov. 2.—Mrs. Elizabeth Sherman and little daughter, Betty, have returned to their home in Connelville after a visit here with Mr. and Mrs. John Davis.

Beautiful weather prevails here at present which is very welcome to all. William Boor, Baltimore & Ohio engineer at Somerset, has returned there after a visit here with his family.

G. H. Mickey, the popular conductor on the C. & O. branch, is enjoying a few days' vacation. Conductor Fred Wilhelm is acting during his absence.

Mr. and Mrs. William Byrd Dickinson request the pleasure of your company at a Ma Jong Party to be held Thursday, February 28, 1924
at their residence, 792 Elwood Avenue.
R. S. V. P.

If your morning mail contained an engraved invitation of this kind, would you be able to accept? Or would you be obliged to send your regrets because you do not know how to play the popular Chinese Game?

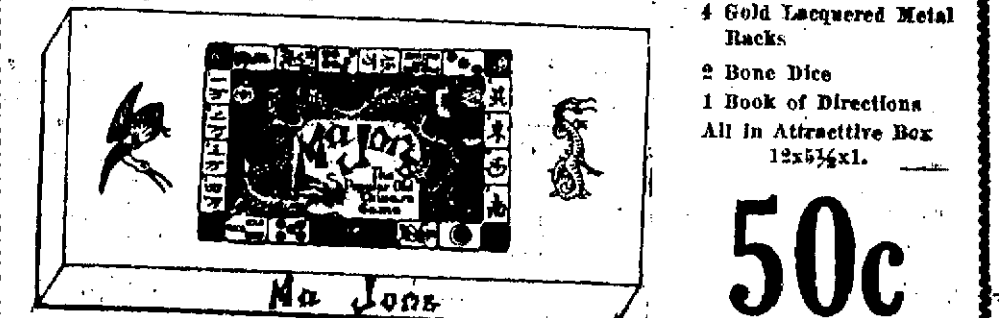

MA JONG

Invitations such as are shown above are being sent out daily. Ma Jong parties are quite the thing these days, when the Chinese game has taken the place of Bridge and other card games. Everywhere in thousands of homes in our city, people of all type gather about tables and heartily enjoy the new, old game.

You, Too, Can Enjoy It for it is no longer necessary to spend several dollars for a game. We are offering it at 50c and you can learn to play with it just as well as if you spent many times more than that. You can learn from the book of directions which is included with the game, so that when you are invited to a party you will be able to accept and be a lively contender for first prize.

Furthermore, you will be fascinated with the game right from the start and will be giving the folks at home many very pleasant evenings.

The Greatest Bargain I Ever Heard of

is the comment of nearly everyone who comes into the office for the game. These people seek sets for various reasons; but as all are good ones, we print some of them here:

"I want to learn how to play."
"I want to entertain in a new way."
"I just wanted to understand the talk in our sewing circle."

"I like to keep up with other people."
"I want a game to keep my folks home evenings."
"I'm having three tables of Ma Jong and can't afford the expensive sets."
"I'll spend half a dollar anytime to satisfy my curiosity."
"Everybody's doing it, so I want to do it, too."

Our Supply Is Becoming Exhausted

In contracting for an unusually large number of the games, we felt we had gauged the local demand but we evidently were mistaken. The interest in the game and the desire for a popular-priced set were much greater than we anticipated. The result is that our supply is diminishing rapidly and, as we are not sure we will be able to get more of them at the advantageous rate of the first lot, we urge you to use the coupon at once.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Anderson were visitors to Somerset yesterday.

With a self-accusing cry, Trevor sprang to her, picked her up and carried her to the couch. She lay in his arms without resistance; her body had surrendered to a laxity that let him slip her under her head and arrange her limbs as he would. She was listless; too tired to fight, too broken to weep. He knelt beside her and took both her hands in his. "Now that you are no longer an irresponsible child," he said, "now that your stripped self is here to listen, I will tell you how I love you. The child in you might forget; the woman never. I love you in body and in spirit. I love you so that I am ready to stand up and deny freedom. I love you enough to give you myself and the world—a world of starlit nights and silent spaces that I've worshipped so long alone. Yes, I love you enough for that, and I have to God help me, for you are in my heart and I can never, never get you out."

Andrea looked as if blood were being transfused into her veins with each word. She felt her youth coming back with the sure surge of an advancing tide. Her eyes grew bright and then frightened. "White Man!" she gasped. "Take me quickly! I feel myself growing young again!"

He looked to his feet, caught her up in his arms and shook her; then he surrendered. "Young for me?" he said. "What difference does it make? I love to your youth as I already love your old age. Put your arms around my neck, look into my eyes and tell me you love me, too."

"Clinging to him, her head thrown back, her eyes in his, she said, 'I love you.'"

"And now, my little sweetheart, my own girl, just once more."

"Oh!" he begged Andrea, "don't make me say it again; let me kiss you!"

Five minutes later Trevor reluctantly opened the door to the cold and cruel, "Bishop!"

One of the three white men sprang to his feet. "God bless my soul," he exclaimed, "where did you come from? When did you get here? My dear chap, what's happened to your face?"

"Trevor, forgetful of his diminished appearance, put his hands to his face, quivering as though he feared that some one had clung there to betray their recent occupation; then he remembered his singed and bandaged condition. "Oh, that!" he said. "Nothing. Nothing to speak of. Won't you come in? I'll see your companion safe."

"The bishop entered the hut and moved his eyes inquisitively as Trevor closed the door. 'Mosquitoes?' he murmured and politely didn't wait for an answer. 'Charming quarters. Quite the comfortable thing.' Then he caught sight of Andrea who was half-sitting on the corner of the table and swinging her free leg. Once more his eyebrows went up but this time with a snap that would have carried them over the back of his head had they not been rooted.

"The bishop of Momia; the Honorable Andrea Pellor," said Trevor in businesslike tones.

"So pleased, my lord," said Andrea with a smile that turned into a rippling laugh. "I beg your pardon, she stammered, 'but—surprise—don't go with your face.'"

It was true; the bishop's astonishment seemed to have startled his features separately, scattering them over his countenance at grotesque angles.

"Andrea," he gasped, "Andrea Pellor?"

"Yes," said Trevor, "that's the name. Now, bishop, if you'll sit down, I'll soon be able to satisfy you that the arguments I used to get you here are more than justified."

"Andrea Pellor!" repeated his lordship.

"You have it correctly, bishop," assured Trevor. "Won't you take this chair?"

The bishop's eyes gradually gathered themselves to a single focus on Andrea's face. "Young woman," he said, "do you know that the entire world has been perturbed for weeks as to your whereabouts? Do you know that your family has been suffering agonies of suspense as to your fate? Do you know that the man to whom you are betrothed has offered a thousand pounds for your discovery alive?"

Andrea glanced triumphantly at Trevor. "A thousand pounds," she murmured.

"Alive," he countered, also murmuring.

The bishop rapped on the table with his knuckles. "Do you know all these things?"

Andrea slipped from the table and stood before her inquisitor. "It's quite natural," she said in a clean-cut tone. "Trevor had never heard her use before. 'That you should be a little excited. Of course, I'm dying to hear all the news about the world and our old Aunty Gwen and things in general, but do let's sit down. It always seems so greedy to me to gossip standing.'"

She turned from him to the chair that Trevor held for her and motioned the suddenly tamed primate to another. His lips had snapped shut at the shocking asperity that he came heaving tumbled on his tongue and he sat down on the extreme edge of the indicated seat as though by his pose he would register a continued but silent protest.

"You wouldn't think to look at him," said Andrea to Trevor, "that in half an hour he'll be taking comfort out of that chair and out of a good cigar and out of a good glass of brandy."

laughed at the bishop is just the way to take the edge off his words.

He slowly smiled and just as slowly slid back into the depths of the chair; his hands, without the aid of his eyes, found the box of cigars that Trevor held out to him and his lips formed, in reply to a murmured inquiry, the following words: "A small one, please—just at all, may I say?"

He turned to Andrea and said in a leader voice, "Now tell me all about it."

"There really isn't much to tell," said Andrea. "I was tired of dancing and climbed down the cliff from the hotel. It must have been about four o'clock in the morning. I found this white man—his real name is Robert Odman, Trevor—linking with an airplane and I asked him to take me with him and he did. She dropped her eyes. "Now he's agreed to marry me."

Trevor turned white-lipped from the door where he had been giving an order to Bathub "Andrea," he said, his eyes blazing with anger. "You will please keep out of this conversation until you are called upon for a few responses." He turned to the bishop. "Please overlook Miss Pellor's slipshodness," he continued. "There is only one reason why I should marry her and she is that she is the only woman I have ever loved."

"But, my dear man," said the bishop, "I know who Lady Andrea is, only too well; the question is who on earth are you? I take it I'm not wrong in thinking that you have got me here with the idea of persuading me to perform a ceremony which will shower me with limelight for the next six months?"

"Nine days in the accepted limit," murmured Andrea and added hastily, "I was just speaking to myself."

Trevor ignored her. "Your question," he said to the bishop, "is a natural one." He went to the high desk, took certain papers and, flushing slightly, handed them to the bishop, who glanced over them with undisguised interest.

"So," he said finally, "you are a retired officer of the Royal Flying Corps, a D. S. O. and you also hold the croix de guerre?" He tapped a devil's tattoo on the arm of his chair and gradually the furrow on his brow cleared and he smiled. "Unexceptional, I understand; but as I am in need of becoming a very much interested third party, I can not refrain from asking if you are in a position to render such financial comfort to this young lady and to her family as I believe it has reason to expect from her original betrothed."

"I am not buying Andrea," said Trevor quickly. "Millions for herself if she needs them; not a cent of tribute for the family. Not to waste your time further," he continued, "I wish to say that I consider you entitled to the thousand pounds' reward offered for her discovery alive and am prepared to hand you the sum in gold at once if you have any scruples as to taking it personally, there is surely no reason why you should not accept it for your was high time, for in spite of the toast that she had had with her tea, Andrea was faint and pale with hunger. Nothing short of the stimulus in the excitement of being married for the very first time in her life could have saved her from collapse."

"That was a great and merry dinner. The toasts that were drunk to the bride were many, some hearty, some witty; but the one that stood out above all others was that in which she pledged herself. She stood, glass in hand, and looked down at the kindly, encouraging faces of the four men."

"With the swan-song of the Honorable Andrea Pellor," she said in a voice that started a bit gaspingly but soon steadied to a clear flow, "who worshipped false gods slipshodly during twenty-five years of her life, who traveled blindfolded through a beautiful world to the feet of a Cal of Gold and mercifully died on a certain beach at four o'clock of a morning. She drinks with you to Andrea Robert Odman, Trevor, the happiest woman—the happiest woman—this—"

Trevor leaped to his feet, put his arm around her and patted her on the shoulder. "There, there!" he mouthed desperately, his face flushed with embarrassment.

"Kiss her, you duffer!" roared the three diners in one voice.

CHAPTER XIV.

They were all early to bed, the word having gone out to break camp at dawn for safari. The bishop and his companions were northward bound, Andrea and her man headed for the south and the coast. In the cold mist of the morning they parted with light handclasp and earnestly murmured "God-bless-you's."

Incidents, following rapidly one after the other, kept Andrea's mind off the coming encounter with her old world until she was actually on its verge.

One afternoon they came upon the bay and Trevor waited expectantly for her to acknowledge the scene of her ravishment. He was disappointed; for the thin, insignificant strip of yellow sand tucked under the red cliff diminished by distance to the proportion of a railway embankment, meant nothing to her inexperienced eyes.

At last he pointed it out to her. "Behold," he said, "the beginning and the end of all things."

"Why," exclaimed Andrea, "is it

"If you refuse," said Trevor grimly, "you and your companions will be detained, forcibly if necessary, as witnesses to a ceremony performed in accordance with native custom."

The bishop turned to Andrea. "Would you—" he stammered and stopped.

"I am quite indifferent as to method," said Andrea, quietly. "No ceremony can add to the pledge that I have made in my heart. He has my love. He can have my body and soul for the making."

The bishop was silent for a moment, his eyes fixed on the vivid glow that illuminated Trevor's face, then he said, "Well, my dear, that settles it finally. In fact, that I can't help but perceive that you are both equally in haste to repent at leisure."

He arose with a resigned sigh. "Five minutes are soon up," he said to Trevor. "Will you agree to take time out while I talk to my associates?"

"Most certainly," answered Trevor gravely and opened the door for his lordship.

In ten minutes the associates were persuaded; in half an hour, with the assistance of the diamond magnate's engagement ring, Andrea and Trevor were made man and wife according to the ancient usage of the Church of England; and just five minutes after that, Bathub announced dinner. It really the beach—our beach? How it's shrink!"

"It has," said Trevor solemnly. "The erosion on this bit of coast is a foot for every hundred years. We'd better hurry if we want to make a landing."

Cuticura Healed Eczema In Pimples On Baby's Face

"When my baby was about nine months old eczema broke out on her face in tiny pimples and later spread to her limbs. Later the pimples became larger and featured and broke and scalded her. She became restless and cross, sleeping fitfully. Her clothing aggravated the trouble on her limbs greatly, and was very disfiguring."

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it there was an improvement. So I purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and when these were gone baby was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Leona Caldwell, Lock Box 78, Palmer, N. Y., Jan. 3, 1924.

A GREAT deal more sausage would be eaten if people could see how we make WHITE LILY. Because we follow a formula as exactly and carefully as a good pharmacist fills a prescription. The meat in White Lily Sausage is simply the fresh ham and lean cuttings from the choice, tender little porkers from which White Lily Hams are taken. Spices and seasonings are added, and just enough fat to enrich without causing undue shrinkage. An absolute formula upon which you can absolutely rely—and the sausage, aromatic, savory and delicious—a family delight. A small tag on every fifth link identifies the link sausage—though you can get it in country style if you wish. Your dealer likes to supply you with White Lily—because it enhances your appreciation of sausage.

Corporation President Was Waterboy

Charles M. Kittle started his business career at fourteen as a waterboy to a railroad section gang. At forty-one he has been elected president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., of Chicago, said to be the largest mail order firm in the world.

When the slain body of Mrs. Grace Dunn, Thomas, of Clifton, N. J., was found in the mouth of an abandoned iron mine at Oxford, N. J., her husband, who "bought" her for $50 and a bottle of whiskey, was placed in jail at Belvidere, N. J., as a material witness. Before he could be formally charged with murder, he hanged himself in his cell with a pair of suspenders, and was dead when cut down.

Back Yard Poultry Keeping

By HENRY BALL
(National Crop Improvement Bureau.)

"There is a certain amount of table scraps and kitchen waste which has feeding value but which, if not fed back its way into the garbage pail," says R. R. Stoen, former poultryman of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Each hen in her pallet rear should produce 10 dozen eggs. Almost every family could keep about ten hens which should produce 100 dozen eggs which, at 40 cents, would be worth $40."

There is no need of a noisy rooster for a hen will lay just as many eggs in single hatchedness, and the eggs will keep fresh much longer.

The flock should be confined in a high wire fence so that they may be kept out of the neighbors' yards and gardens. If the dropping boards are kept clean there can be no possible objection from anyone.

As the hens grow past their egg laying peak they should be eaten and newer hens provided. It is generally more economical to buy day-old chicks rather than to set your own hens.

D. C. Kennard of the Ohio station says that considerable wheat may be fed in case corn is scarce but should have some yellow corn and bran used with it. He says 60 per cent wheat, 20 per cent yellow corn and 20 per cent oats may be used together with some ground feed such as ensilage.

UNCONSUMED FUEL PREVENTIBLE LOSS IN POWER PLANTS

Combustible Found in Refuse
Often Runs as High as 12 or 20 Per Cent.

ECONOMY IN RECOVERY

The average power plant sustains a considerable loss of fuel in the form of unconsumed combustible matter in the boiler refuse. Rudolph Kadlich, Department of the Interior engineer, points out in a report just made to the Bureau of Mines.

In actual operating practice the amount of unconsumed combustible in the boiler refuse may range from a few per cent to as high as 40 or 50 per cent, and the refuse may be 10 to 20 per cent of the fuel fired. In an informal statement one well known combustion engineer estimates that the average amount of combustible in the refuse from a large stoker fired central station boiler plant is about 16 or 20 per cent. Assuming that the coal burned contains 12 per cent of ash, and allowing for fine dust losses, approximately two per cent of the coal will be lost through the chimney. The operating engineer of one large modern central plant reports that when burning coal of about 12 per cent ash content, the average amount of combustible in the refuse was in the neighborhood of 33 per cent, entailing a loss of approximately four per cent of the heating value of the fuel fired. Where the coal used daily runs up into hundreds of tons, an appreciable economy could be effected by recovering this unburned fuel.

Though in America little attention has been paid to such recovery, in Europe considerable experimenting has resulted in the development of several types of machines for reclaiming combustible matter from boiler or furnace refuse. While the operation of most of these machines is by wet separation, either by flotation or by jigging, one machine operating on the magnetic principle has proved satisfactory, and with a number of installations have been made. When coal is burned the ash forming constituents tend to fuse together into clinkers more or less separate from the unburned coal and coke. The iron which is present in the ash of practically all coals, combines with the other ash forming constituents and forms a weakly magnetic clinker, while the combustible is non-magnetic. By passing the boiler refuse, crushed to such a size that the mechanical bond between the clinker and combustible is broken, through a magnetic field the clinker is retained by the magnet while the combustible passes on.

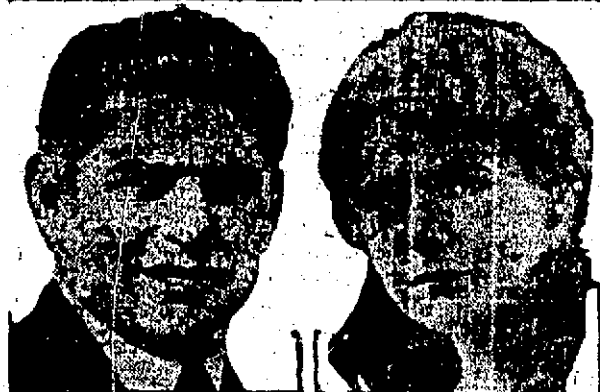

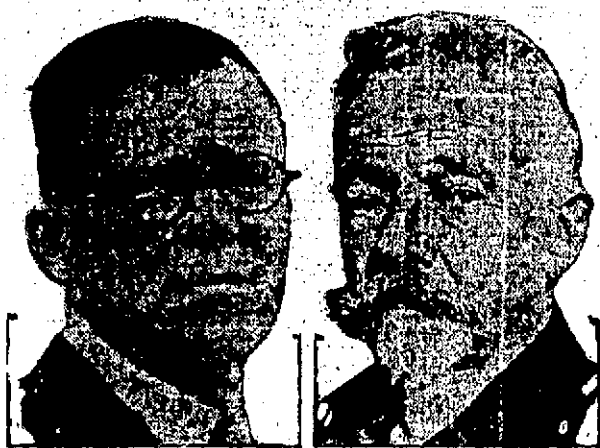

By this method a more or less complete separation of the ash from the combustion is possible, depending on the amount of iron present. Tests reported by a German firm using a magnetic drum type separator show a recovery up to 37 per cent of the combustible in the refuse. An American firm in making tests of magnetic recovery of combustible was able to recover approximately 30 per cent of the combustible with a standard magnetic separator when crushing the refuse to 1/4 inch and smaller. A special separator with characteristics adapted to the material treated would probably give a greatly increased capacity.

Though abroad, self-contained, complete and easily operated plants of capacities varying upwards of 3/4 ton per hour are manufactured and used to some extent, inquiry among makers of magnetic separating equipment in this country failed to disclose any who manufactured such equipment especially designed for the recovery of combustible from boiler refuse. It is believed by the Bureau of Mines that were such equipment available, and the operating cost sufficiently low, a demand would arise among those operators of power plants who have tried without success to run at high ratings with high ash fuels and will keep down their pit losses.

Abroad the recovered product is usually briquetted and marketed as a smokeless domestic fuel. While this practice might be feasible in this country, it is more likely that the reclaimed fuel will be returned to the bunkers and used with the raw coal in the plant.

Copy of Serial 2434, "Magnetic recovery of combustible in boiler plant refuse," may be obtained from the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Mines, Washington, D.C.

While Mrs. Deda J. Akeley, noted big game hunter, is in the African Congo hunting lions and elephants for the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Museum of Natural History, her divorced husband, Carl Akeley, himself a noted hunter, is moonlighting with his second wife, the former Miss Mary Lee Jobe, famous mountain climber. Frank P. Walsh, attorney for Robert M. La Follette, appearing before the Senate Committee "elish" (and inquiry in Chicago, asserted that $19,000,000 for campaign funds was the goal of the "unimpeachable" backing President Coolidge. Reports that United States Senator Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, would not return to the Senate because of illness, have been denied by Boston by his grandson. The charge that Luis Angel Firpo committed perjury in his papers for entrance into the United States have been withdrawn by Canon William Sheele Chase, of Brooklyn, who sought to bar the Argentine fighter's reentry.

Betty Fitch, one of the members of the cast of Earl Carroll's Vanities, offered $4,000 ring as bail when Carroll was held in $250 bond for displaying alleged obscene pictures in lobby of his theatre, but he refused bail and went to Tomb "for principle." Florence Allen, sprightly New York show girl, weakened in her battle with life and attempted to die by poison. When physicians pulled her through, she said she was sorry, and that she wouldn't try it again. Dorothy Dalton, motion picture actress, lost her court light in recovery $4,000 for dresses lost from her trunk in a New York city hotel's lavatory, the court holding she assumed the responsibility when she placed them there. He sued the Shubert for that amount, which he was to have received for rehearsing his ballet. At the first rehearsal, some one laughed at the scanty costume and he left the theatre in a huff and refused to return. The courts ruled against him.

Compensation Allowed Death From Sunstroke

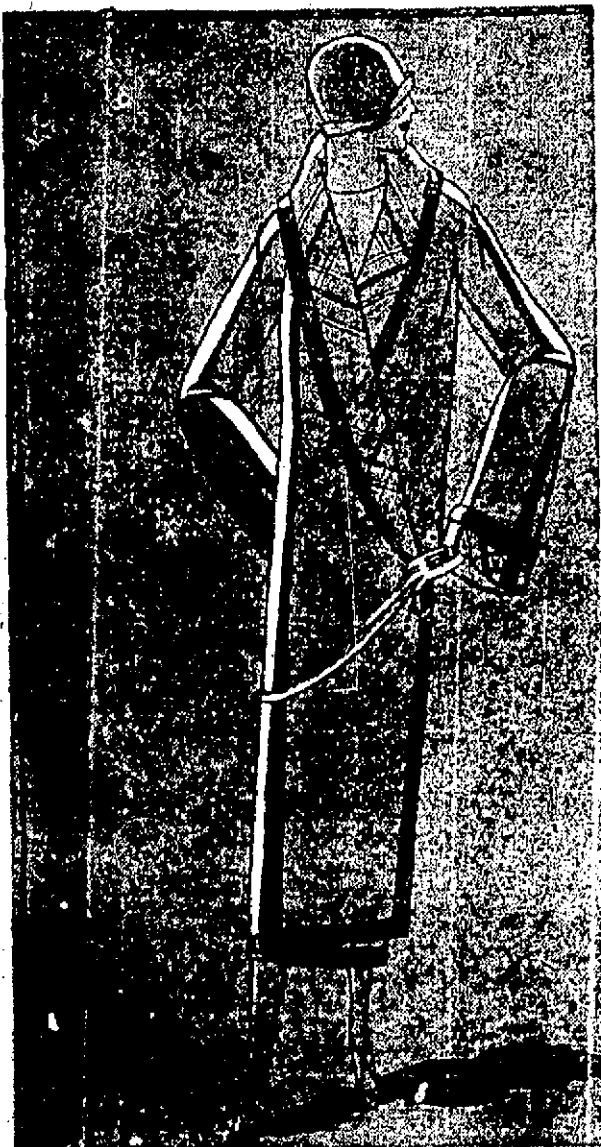

The State Compensation Commission has ruled in favor of compensation for sunstroke. The case is that of Lesko vs. Enterprise Coal Company, which attracted wide attention this year because of the contest made upon it and the establishment of the precedent. It was contended Lesko, who was under 20, died of heart disease and physicians for the company claimed he lived but a few minutes after falling over whereas heat cases generally do not have death so quickly. The deputy coroner found heat exhaustion the cause. The commission found the man who had been working in the sun on a culm bank on August 6, was smitten by the sun, his work during required continuous labor with the sun striking him all day. The man had been in good health prior to the sudden death. An appeal by the company has been dismissed.
